One of the distinguishing features of professions is that their knowledge and skills are at the service of society at large, and do not simply serve the interests of the immediate customer.

Hello world!

Welcome to Mashedlibrary.com. Mashed Library is about "bringing together interested people and doing interesting stuff with libraries and technology". So far, it has been a series of unconference style events.

This site supports networking and discussion – feel free to join if you have an interest in libraries, technology, or both. Beyond just discussion, there is also a wiki where you can post more extensive information about events, documentation, ideas and projects.

The wiki is split into various areas including:

- Upcoming events
- How to organise your own event
- Ingredients (data sources for library-type mashups)
- Techniques (for tools and techniques to help you mash)
- Recipes (examples to copy, or simply to inspire)
- Menu suggestions (ideas for potential mashups)
- Projects (for real, or speculative, projects – why not join in?)

The vision of the Memory of the World Programme is that the world's documentary heritage belongs to all, should be fully preserved and protected for all and, with due recognition of cultural mores and practicalities, should be permanently accessible to all without hindrance.

4 years ago I started Library Web – a news radar site for public libraries, I couldn't afford the fees for a further formal education, but I did have a lot of web skills at that point.

Link

Library Web was essentially my own personal study of libraries using library culture to be found on the web. I am aiming at this point to develop Library Web professionally creating a useful Web 2.0 tool for those studying a field in the process.

What does Zotero do?

Zotero is, at the most basic level, a citation manager. It is designed to store, manage, and cite bibliographic references, such as books and articles. In Zotero, each of these references constitutes an item.

What kind of items are there?

Every item contains different metadata, depending on what type it is. Items can be everything from books, articles, and documents to web pages, artwork, films, sound recordings, bills, cases, or statutes, among many others.

Notes: Protest on St Kilda beach about government's policies

Crowd spells out feeling about climate change

In a well-planned and choreographed protest, thousands of people turn out at St Kilda beach to say their piece.
